AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger.

Insist On Paris Hats. Vienna.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Ladies in our first circles of society," says a memorial from the Vienna Milliners' association to the government, "still insist, in the present terrible times, on wearing Paris hats and will buy no others."

The resolution adopted by the milliners' association further declares that many Viennese milliners are bringing hats from Switzerland and offering them as French models. The association appeals to the government to punish the offending milliners, declaring that their conduct "injures patriotic sentiment, lowers our standard abroad, damages all honest-dealing trades people, and renders illusory all the attempts of the state to make us economically independent of foreign countries."
